Weiner limps out of congressional seat

Three weeks after sex scandal, Weiner's out Some say he was ditched by Democratic Party he fought so hard for Now it's a scramble for his seat

NYC's #1 FREE DAILY

After days of stubborn refusal to give up his seat amid scandal, Rep. Anthony Weiner resigned from office Thursday, costing the Democratic party one of its most outspoken voices.

In the crowded senior center in Sheepshead Bay where Weiner first began his political career 20 years ago, the shamed congressman took the stage alone to end a weeks-long scandal.

"I had hoped to be able to continue the work that the citizens of my district had elected me to do," Weiner said. "Unfortunately, the distraction that I have created has made that impossible, so today I am announcing my resig-

Weiner decided to resign after speaking with Abedin, according to reports, who returned from an overseas work trip with Hillary Clinton this week.

A special election will now be held for Weiner's 9th District congressional seat.

Democratic leaders pressured Weiner to resign, including President Barack Obama, fearing he had become a political liability. Weiner was also a

NY Giants hero hates gay love

David Tyree warns of 'anarchy' should state legalize gay marriage

Last-minute attempt to pass bill

As New York state legislators are scrambling in an eleventh-hour attempt to pass historic gay marriage legislation, a beloved New York Giants champion has come out against it.

David Tyree, the former Giants player who caught the Super Bowl-winning pass in 2008, said gay marriage should not be legalized in a video he taped for the National Organization for Marriage.

Tyree, a devoted Christian, deemed that, "Two men will never be able to show a woman how to be a woman. And that is just simple."

According to Tyree, legalizing gay marriage could potentially lead to anarchy.

"If they pass this gay marriage bill, what I know will happen is this will be the beginning of our country sliding toward ... it's a strong word but, anarchy," said Tyree. "That will be the moment in our society where it will lose its grip."

The state Senate needs only one more vote to pass a proposed gay marriage bill; 32 senators are required for the bill to be passed. As of now, 31 are in favor.

Tyree, a devoted Chrisin, deemed that, "Two bany Thursday to petition en will never be able to senators to vote in favor.

> The senators have until Monday, when the legislative session ends, to decide whether everyone should be able to say "I do."

Correction

An article in Tuesday's Metro New York, headlined 'DA: Abusers get off far too easily" stated that the Sanctuary for Families group opposes a bill that would make repeated offenses of domestic violence a felony crime. In fact, as the group's testimony given on June 13 makes clear, the group fully supports the bill. The group opposes a separate bill that would create crimes of domestic abuse in the first and second degree because, the group says, it permits violent abusers to substitute "anger management" classes for criminal sanctions. SHOE SEARCH FOR Life is a race to accomplish and always has been. This hit home for me when reading one of the "Little House on the Prairie" books to the kids. Whether it's making bullets for a gun to keep wild animals from eating your children or increasing your company's Twitter followers to drive sales, we always fill our lives with work as a means to an end.

hoes was the big topic yesterday namely, children's shoes for school. With the weather turning warmer, our boys would prefer to go barefoot at all times and only put on sandals when threatened with bodily harm. Barefoot is great in the backyard but doesn't fly at school. Our secondgrader demanded to wear his favorite: ratty old flip-flops that are falling apart and barely fit anymore. He knew we'd say "no," and made his case so well he practically had a flip chart and laser pointer. After wasting a few precious minutes on back and forth, knowing we were about to miss the bus, we invoked both tough love and the tagline for our network by saying, "Fine. Watch what happens." Sure enough, an e-mail came in with a heads-up that he'd be coming off the bus in loaner shoes, reminding us Quoted of the closed-heel, closed-toe policy. At the bus stop, discussion ensued. Socks and sneakers would be an obvious choice, but our little metroman-in-training insisted that look wouldn't be cool with shorts. Because of course, being cool is vital. And who am I to discount his opinion — don't his father and I spend countless hours dreaming up the perfect outfits for every occasion?

e headed to the local shoe store with his 5-year-old brother along for the ride — they've both grown so quickly this year that the only hand-medowns that don't look or smell like death are all too small. Closed toe, closed heel, no cartoon characters and nothing that lights up so as not to distract or give anyone seizures. I made the mistake of mentioning this on Facebook or Twitter or somewhere, and dozens of parents tweeted back that we should lighten up on the shoe search. We did wind up with a good compromise - the kids picked out breezy sneakers with cutouts and each got a light-up yo-yo as well. My husband spent the next half hour waxing nostalgic and showing them how to "walk the dog" and "rock the cradle." Fine, everyone wins as long as they don't try "around the world" inside.

State's rent laws hang in balance

New York state's rent laws expired on Wednesday and the Republican-controlled Senate failed to pass an extension Thursday that would have protected thousands of New York City apartment-dwellers.

NYPD looks into Tupac shooting claim

NEW YORK. The NYPD is investigating a claim made by a man serving a life sentence in jail who says he was paid to rob and shoot Tupac Shakur in 1994. The man said a hiphop mogul paid him $2,500 to shoot the rapper outside a Manhattan studio and that he still has some of Shakur's jewelry from the attack. Shakur survived that shooting and was killed two years later, gunned down in Las Vegas.

featuring the work of more than 30 contemporary artists from 20 countries, mainly from Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Feininger's "At the Edge of the World" presents the artist's well-known Cubist works, as well as surprising glimpses of his political caricatures and comic strips. It runs June 30 to Oct. 16.

"El Museo's Bienal: The (S) Files 2011" is El Museo del Barrio's (www.elmuseo.org) sixth biennial of the most avant-garde works from Latino, Caribbean and Latin American artists in the NYC area. This year's exhibit will be presented in six venues all over the city from June 14 to Jan. 8.

Kids in town? Swing by the American Museum of Natural History (www.amnh.org) to check out over 200 live amphibians at "Frogs: A Chorus of Colors," which is back by popular demand through Jan. 2012.

Adults will linger for AMNH's "Picturing Science: Museum Scientists and Imaging Technologies," which opens June 25 and presents 20 sets of large-format prints initially created for scientific knowledge but that actually resulted in art.

MoMA PS1 (www.ps1.org) has "Ryan Trecartin: Any Ever" on view Sunday through Sept. 3. The artist's video installations will take over the museum's firstfloor main gallery.

Music festivals

A whole new Ball game

What sets the inaugural Governors Ball apart from other fests is that there are no overlapping sets, eliminating the need for debate over where and for whom to spill sweat. One producer behind the bash, taking place on Governors Island, co-president of Founders
Entertainment Jordan Wolowitz, insists there's no formula for devising a killer summer concert, though there are a few key ingredients: "Rule No. 1
when it comes to booking is that I'll only put on events featuring acts that I would personally pay to see."

Diversity is also essential, so long as the artists — from hip-hop to electropop — share a common goal. In the case of Governors Ball, it's to make you bust a move. Headliners include mash-up mastermind Girl Talk, psychedelic duo Empire of the Sun, synth superstar Pretty Lights and rapper Big Boi. When booking talent, Wolowitz explains that the biggest draw is the overall vision of the festival and for younger bands, it's a chance to perform in front of a larger crowd than they would on a club tour. What else might attract an allstar lineup? Mutual respect, says the promoter. "Girl Talk and Big Boi are fans of each other's work and have performed together live."

Limited capacity on the island means the audience gets in on the intimacy, too. In fact, Wolowitz says location is a core reason that the Governors Ball outshines its rivals.

"Most major music festivals are destination events — you have to travel and be inconvenienced to attend," he says, adding that getting to the all-day dance-a-thon requires just a quick ferry ride from downtown Manhattan.

The 'Lantern' doesn't shine

"Don't believe the hype" could be the theme song of this summer's tent-pole releases. Everyone was chomping at the bit to see "Green Lantern," but like certain other summer releases before it (yeah, you, "Pirates"), the expectations far outmatched the final product.

The blame lies squarely on the four screenwriters who adapted the less-widely known comic book to the screen. The film fails to be funny when it's trying to be; and when it wants to be serious, it so heavily borrowed from the likes of old-school "Star Trek" that it feels like a half-baked parody. And for someone who is not a regular sci-fi fan,

If you go

'Green Lantern'
Director: Martin Campbell
Cast: Ryan Reynolds, Blake
Lively, Tim Robbins
Rating: PG-13
Grade: 00000

watching magenta-skinned alien Sinestro gravely explain the green lantern power ring is just, well sorry, it's hilarious.

Poor Ryan Reynolds. He really does try to save this thing playing Green Lantern Hal Jordan. And you get the sense that he could if the script was just a bit more clever, but his scenes with love interest Carol Ferris (played on autopilot by Blake Lively) are so obviously lifted from thousands of movies before it that it is impossible to care about them.

The only real treat here is the special effects, which make use of 3-D technology in a way that many other 3-D releases have failed to do. Evil enemy Parallax is one of the spookiest henchmen we've seen in a while, and if you're not too picky about, you know, storyline — this will definitely fit the bill.

Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to, in 140 characters or less:

Today, Pink is parenting, Russell Brand is getting kinky, Sarah Silverman is thinking about the world, Conan O'Brien is taking things literally and Jim Carrey may not be back on "Today."

my life was once whiskey, tears, and cigarettes... now it's snot, tears, and the color of poop.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip & @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

- Dorothy Robinson will return on Monday

So, how do we apply to be Ryan Reynolds?

Today's "what world do you people live in?!" moment is brought to you by Blake Lively, who co-stars in "Green Lantern" this weekend with Ryan Reynolds.

How did the actress try to "sabotage" her super-fit leading man? Take it away, Blake: "I would cook for the entire crew and I would try to lure him into eating some of the treats," she tells UsMagazine.com. "Cupcake lollipops, fresh candies, homemade caramel and marshmallows covered in chocolate — stuff like that."

The horror! And how do you feel about it, Blake? "I am a horrible person!"

We don't even care if she's joking. Does she have any idea — any at all — how happy some free stale doughnuts can make most workplaces? And to have someone even a fraction as hot as Blake Lively serving them?

Blake, we hope there's a newsroom in your near, unfortunate future.

Hugh Hefner's revenge

Well, this is embarrassing: Crystal Harris is on the cover of the July Playboy wearing not much more than her now-ex's silk robe. It's too late to change the "Introducing Crystal Hefner" headline, so what did Hef do? Strategically slapped a > big "Runaway bride in this issue!" sticker on her. A little awkward, sure, but in the realm of naked-ex revenge pictures, it's actually pretty tasteful.

Second life for Gaga's dress

Remember the "meat dress" Lady Gaga wore to the MTV Video Music Awards last year? It's now on display at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, although not before some preservation work. "The dress was kept in a meat locker until the treatment was ready to begin," the Hall said in a statement to CNN.com. "It was then placed in a vat of chemicals and, while still pliable, was put on a body form and allowed to dry." Admittedly, we almost like it in zombie form.

Talking points

Aniston getting serious

Things are reportedly moving fast for Jennifer Aniston and her rumored new boyfriend, Justin Theroux, according to Us Weekly. "He's living at her place in L.A.," a source says. "And she's introducing him as her boyfriend." Theroux also has an apartment in New York, which he'd shared with his girlfriend of 14 years, costume designer Heidi Bivens, until Bivens moved out last weekend, sources say. Previously, Theroux had usually stayed at the Chateau Marmont when in Los Angeles.

Christina on her divorce

Christina Aguilera is opening up about her recent divorce, telling W Magazine that she and exhusband Jordan Bratman share the blame for their marriage ending. "At one time or another we were both not angels," Aguilera says. "It got to a point where our life at home was reminding me of my own childhood. I will not have my son grow up in a tension-filled home." And the singer, who's no stranger to life in the public eye, knew it wouldn't be an easy process: "I knew there would be a negative reaction in the press to my divorce, but I am not going to live my life because of something someone might say."

Be nice to Britney!

Justin Timberlake is coming to ex-girlfriend Britney Spears' defense after the "Femme Fatale" singer has been hit with a deluge of criticism online for her current dance moves. "This thing that happens online bothers me these anonymous [commentators]," he tells Playboy. "People think they can say anything and it doesn't matter to people. I'd love to see the people who comment about Britney online say those things to her face, because they couldn't."

New York inches closer to legal gay marriage

▶ Politicians work to finalize support ▶ NY would be largest state to allow same-sex unions ▶ Advocates hope to celebrate after years of lobbying

Gay couples at the altar might soon be a reality, after New York politicians scrambled all week to secure the votes to pass samesex marriage legislation.

Governor Andrew Cuomo introduced a bill Tuesday to legalize gay marriage, something he said he would not do unless he could be sure it would pass.

"I am very excited," said Anthony Brown, executive director of The Wedding Party, which supports gay couples and families.

Earlier this week, a fleet of senators who were undecided signaled their support for the bill, leaving supporters needing just one more Republican vote to pass.

"I think I'm doing the right thing," said Roy Mc-Donald, a Republican who lent his support this week.

The bill would allow marriages 30 days after its passage. In a nod to conservatives, the bill includes language that exempts religious institutions from marrying gay couples.

The road to legalization has been a rocky one, with a bill failing several times in the Senate, most recently in 2009. Advocates received strong support from the governor, who promised during his campaign to make same-sex marriage a priority in his first year.

Brown said the move was bittersweet, because he already married his husband in Canada.

"We love New York so much," he said. "We wanted to celebrate here, but it wasn't an option for us."

Now, he said, he can celebrate with others who no longer face constraints.

"All of our friends who have considered it an option or thought about it, now it may actually be a reality," he said.

Horoscope

II Gemini May 21-June 20. A successful person who has your best interests at heart might offer you an opportunity to realize a second source of earnings. It is likely to mean more work.

Gancer June 21-July 22. Don't be surprised to hear from several people who think of you as a good friend. You have more pals out there than you realize, who want to share some quality time with you.

 Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Whether you know it or not, you've done your fair share of what others call good deeds. More than one person will remember this and put you on the receiving end for a change.

TV Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Don't go anywhere without leaving word as to where you'll be and how you can be reached. A couple of pals will have some exceptionally good information to share with you.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. For those of you who have been putting forth a lot of effort for others, rewards will begin to roll in. It could turn out to be an impressive cavalcade.

M Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Don't discard any ideas you get, even if some of them are grandiose and totally different from what others concoct. This is what produces big things.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Instead of following guidelines put out by the establishment, follow your own perceptions on certain commercial matters of interest. You may spot what the bigwigs fail to see.

16 Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. This could be quite a day for you, with several pleasant surprises in the making. You and your companions will each in their own way be lucky for one another.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. It behooves you to focus on only the most important things when it comes to choosing which assignments confronting you are the most important at this time.

H Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Regardless of how many assignments you have to do or which ones you think will generate the most good for the majority, you'll handle it quite well, because you'll do your best.

T Aries March 21-April 19. Before the day is over, something extremely nice is likely to happen. Chances are it will have to do with adding to your financial well-being.

Taurus April 20-May 20. The busier you are, the more effectively you'll perform. When you start to accelerate, the more focused you'll become, making both your mind and body operate at high efficiency. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Welcome to the whirlwind life of Brian Gordon, the journeyman converted outfielder who won this week's TBA competition to replace Bartolo Colon and earned another start Tuesday in Cincinnati.

The 32-year-old righty did not get the decision in a 3-2 victory over Texas that was decided on Brett Gardner's base hit in the 12th, but he did more than enough to put the Yankees in position for the victory.

"Right now, I got chills but it's special," Gordon said. "It was just unbelievable. This is the greatest stage in baseball and you're one of the five guys [in the rotation]. I'm enjoying it. It's truly special."
